

The scene takes place in Paris. Paris is the capital of France.

There are a lot of people. We can see here several families on the lawn, near the Eiffel tower.

People are relaxing. They are chatting with other families or friends.

They are swimming in the water of fountains because it's hot. It's probably in summer. They are reading books or newspapers, chatting, and some people are sleeping in front of the sun. They are tanning and the children are playing in the water. It looks like holidays but they are staying in Paris.

On the road there are a lot of motorists.